

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE A CHARITY TRUSTEE

MARK MOORE

TRUSTEE OF WESTERN CARE ASSOCIATION

---

"The most rewarding aspect of being a trustee is knowing that my contributions are helping to positively impact people's lives."

Why did you decide to join a charity board?

I decided to join the board of Western Care Association because I am passionate about making a meaningful impact in my community. The organisation's mission to provide support to individuals with disabilities and their families deeply resonated with me, and I felt my professional background could help contribute to its ongoing success. Becoming a trustee has allowed me to give back in a strategic and hands-on way.

What are your typical tasks and duties on the board?

As a trustee and part of the Risk, IT, and Finance sub-committee, my responsibilities include overseeing key aspects of the organisation's risk management processes, financial sustainability, and technological developments. This involves reviewing financial reports, assessing risk exposure, and contributing to long-term strategies that help ensure the organisation's operational and financial health. Collaboration with other trustees and management is essential in ensuring that decisions align with the charity's goals and values.

What has challenged you in your trustee role?

One of the biggest challenges I've faced as a trustee is balancing the operational demands of the charity with strategic oversight. As trustees, we need to focus on the big picture while supporting day-to-day management. Navigating complex regulatory requirements and ensuring the charity remains sustainable in an ever-changing environment has also required a steep learning curve. However, these challenges have been opportunities for personal growth and development.

What has been the biggest reward or benefit in becoming a trustee?

The most rewarding aspect of being a trustee is knowing that my contributions are helping to positively impact people's lives. Seeing the tangible difference the organisation makes in the community and being part of a passionate team of trustees and staff gives me immense satisfaction. It's also been incredibly enriching on a personal and professional level, as I've gained new skills, insights, and relationships along the way.

What would you say to someone thinking about joining a charity board?

I would wholeheartedly encourage anyone considering joining a charity board to take the leap. It's a deeply fulfilling role that allows you to contribute your skills to something truly meaningful, while also offering a unique opportunity for personal and professional growth. It's important to be prepared for challenges, but the rewards far outweigh them. You'll find yourself part of a dedicated team working towards a shared vision, and the experience can be transformative.
